

2nd SingHealth Peripartum Course

10 February 2023, Friday
0830 – 1715 hrs | Virtual Course

INTRODUCTION

We are pleased to welcome you to our second perinatal course.

This year we have tried to put together an interesting and varied selection of topics which encompass many practical aspects of the perinatal journey from the antenatal clinic through triage to delivery and beyond. Practical aspects of delivery are discussed focusing on technically challenging situations and emergencies. We look at how the many facets of clinical governance can not only improve safety and quality of patient care but contribute to the education of caregivers and how multidisciplinary team working improves communication.

We touch on the thorny issue of fetal injury and how it can be related to CTG monitoring and decision making. Finally we include a section on civility in medicine and demonstrate how courteous and respectful behaviour towards co-workers can lead to a harmonious work environment.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Review and understanding of common obstetric emergencies
- Review and understanding of the management of other high risk intrapartum conditions eg; preterm labour, cervical incompetence
- Understanding the management dilemmas of deliver at periviable gestations
